KPFK SWITCHBOARD

(818) 985-2711

9 AM to 5 PM, Monday - Friday

The fun part of this job is in celebrating the triumphs of KPFK and learning about its remarkable history. While most of the daily routine is too busy for "fun," its worth trying to carve out a little time each day to hear the oral history of our past. In recent weeks, I've shared cranberry juice with Fred Haines, whose reminiscences of KPFK's early days can be found elsewhere in your July Folio. His forthright words set a standard of achievement that I can say is only matched occasionally by our deeds on a daily basis.

Still we have succeeded in engaging his energy after many years of separation, and for that I thank Fred Haines. His wit, wisdom and time are here for your perusal both in terms of the column he contributed and for anchoring 90 minutes of a recent special program titled China in Crisis.

As time permits I will continue to immerse myself in the archeology of KPFK and I would be grateful to any of you who could suggest other people, knowledgeable about our history, with whom it would be worth conversing.

Sadly, one of the people who was on the "one of these days I'll talk to" list was Terry Drinkwater, the first General Manager of this station. My only encounter with him came while we were both employed by CBS, and both on the same story: he for the West Coast Bureau and me for Channel 2. He shared his findings on the story, and I knew him to be a dedicated, thorough and professionally giving individual. We will miss that presence.

As you might imagine, much of our staff's daily routine is now aimed at ushering in our 30th Anniversary. Program Director Lucia Chappelle is hard at work planning special material for our birthday, and seeking to bring you that sense of renaissance which we all feel. We thank all of you for your support of our efforts — most recently in our Summer Fund Drive. If you made a pledge during this drive, let me urge you to follow through with a check. I want to thank the staff for its now-routinely heroic work during the Myth and Reality drive.

While I'm on the subject of money, let's take a look at one important future priority: Pacifica and KPFK are now pouring the foundation for more effective fund raising. In the jargon of non-profits, we're looking to create a "development" plan, which translates into a blueprint for pledges and donations in a more organized way than we've ever undertaken. The first step is to recruit volunteers with fund raising expertise and experience. We'd like you to join our Advisory Board and provide direction to it in this area. If you have background in this rather specialized activity, please contact Board Chairperson Ken Carr or myself at the station.

Don't be discouraged, however, if you'd like to volunteer but lack the fund raising qualifications. We have a continuing need for people to answer listener inquiries by working at our switchboard; and if you have some skills at researching and reporting, you might want to help form the core of our local-issue team which we want to build slowly into a programming group on the issues of Southern California: growth, development, water, air, education, crime, traffic, sewage and all the other motive forces that contend for your attention and money. I am the contact point for this future focus. Thank you and be well.

GOLDEN VOICES, GOLDEN YEARS

by Fred Haines

The other night I was with Ruth Hirschman at the Rose Cafe when my 29-year-old son walked in. Ruth, who hadn't seen Sean since he was a boy, was taken aback.

"Your father," she said, "was younger than you are now when we met at KPFK..."

Like Ruth, I was suddenly struck by how many years have gone by since those heady days of the early sixties — it seems like yesterday.

Pacifica was the only broadcaster operating on listener-sponsorship. The radical Quaker notions from which founder Lew Hill had developed the concept were still close to our hearts.

Those years have always seemed Pacifica's "golden age" to me. I don't know where else I would have found people like those who were Pacifica then.

Ruth Hirschman is now the manager of KCRW-FM in Santa Monica, and a power in National Public Radio. Every time I hear Mitchell Harding I have to remind myself that he is now in Santa Monica instead of at KPFK. John Leonard, Drama and Literature Director in Berkeley, became the Editor of the New York Times Book Review, Pauline Kael a film critic for the New Yorker, Alan Rich a music critic for important magazines on both coasts. Dave Ossman went on to the Firesign Theatre, Chris Koch produces television for PBS, Dick Elman has written at least 14 books, Lisa Stein manages an FM station in Tampa, Bill Malloch composes, produces records, writes for several important musical papers, and is still — amazingly enough — a regular broadcaster on KPFK.

Alan Watts, Tony Boucher, Elsa Knight Thompson and others have died, as did Terry Drinkwater just a couple of weeks ago. Terry drove me down from Berkeley on a sweltering summer's day in 1961 to contribute a bit of extra muscle to the crew who were moving the station from the two cramped second-floor offices on Melrose where it was born, to the new quarters out on Cahuenga Blvd.

Terry was the first General Manager of KPFK and I was to become another a year later. We were both 25, angry about the many failings of the stations, hot to revolutionize them. We talked of nothing but the radical transformation of Pacifica we'd carry out if we could.

In fact the stations were the best thing ever seen in American broadcasting — but they weren't good enough for us. There was so much to do, and never enough time, never enough money... We all worked day and night and slept in the station to meet those drop-deadlines — that documentary that was going on the air Thursday at 8 whether it was ready or not.

The work was relentless, the rewards small — my salary was something like $75 a week — but then as now the real rewards were the chance to do important creative work, the respect and affection of our listeners, and the sense of a sustaining social mission, along with the power to accomplish at least part of it.

I left Pacifica at the beginning of 1964 — sadly — partly because I disagreed with the stance of the Board of Directors in the face of a vicious onslaught by the FBI and the FCC, partly, I think, to be perfectly honest, because I was burning out. Long hours, low pay, and the frustration of never having enough money to do what we knew had to be done took their toll.

I can't say I like everything that has happened since I left. I still hear things that send me into a rage, I still think it could be so much better than it is — or ever was. I still wish they'd get their act together. But I still listen. I'm amazed at the quality of the news, delighted by the music programming, grateful for the occasional penetrating public affairs special. Every now and then I hear a voice, Terry, or Alan, or Elsa, or Dick... and the old days come back with a rush.

Well, maybe those days weren't the "golden age" of Pacifica after all. Maybe they were just mine.

Fred Haines worked at KPFA in Berkeley and KPFK in the early 60's. In 1967 he was nominated for the Academy Award for his adaptation of Joyce's Ulysses to the screen. In 1974 he directed his own film adaptation of Herman Hesse's Steppenwolf. He is collaborating with Vincent Bugliosi on a book about the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

Terry Drinkwater

KPFK's first General Manager, Terry Drinkwater, has died of cancer at the age of 53. His was the first voice ever heard on a listener-sponsored radio station in Southern California when KPFK started up in 1959. Under his leadership, a broad range of thought and opinion was given a free forum. A Republican, Terry Drinkwater brought conservative commentator Howard Jarvis and marxist Dorothy Healy to KPFK.

After leaving KPFK in 1961, he went to work at KTLA and later at CBS. He won numerous awards for his journalism, including the Alfred I. DuPont - Columbia University Award for a series of reports he did on cancer, including his own.

Terry Drinkwater was interviewed on KPFK in 1984, on the occasion of our 25 Anniversary. He said that he was still a regular listener, and wished us well.

The KPFK Advisory Board meets on the first (non-holiday) Tuesday evening of each month at 7:30 PM, at the station

The Board serves as a conduit between KPFK and your community, and we are currently looking for new members. We are particularly interested in people with development, fund raising, legal or outreach skills.

KPFK AT THIRTYSOMETHING IN THE 90'S

by Lucia Chappelle, Program Director

Whatever KPFK is to become in its fourth decade will depend upon how we reconcile what we were in the so-called "golden age" of the 60's and what we are today. The changes that have brought us from that time to this have been for the most part well-intentioned, but often traumatic, usually deliberately planned, but often arbitrarily executed or twisted by fate. Few have survived to witness it all. However, there remain some children of the "golden age" like myself — a WBAI listener in the late 60's, a KPFK staffer in the mid-70's, a volunteer and then a staffer again in the 80's — who, all along with "our" radio station, are trying to be thirtysomething in the 1990's.

Of course many of our siblings are no longer with Pacifica Radio. There are opportunities for professional satisfaction outside of the original listener sponsored network that did not exist in our early days. The desire for success, monetary and otherwise, has led many to other outlets such as National Public Radio (NPR). A lot of my peers who have chosen that route seem to feel far more like "responsible adults" than they did when they were "messing around with Pacifica."

But one has only to attend any meeting of community broadcasters to know that many are disturbed by the price of ever-increasing success. In the interest of taking a more professional approach to public radio, the Corporation for Public Broadcasting (CPB), which administers federal funding for NPR and other non-commercial broadcasters, has embarked on a major audience research/audience building project. Heated controversy arose when the conventional wisdom of the broadcasting industry confronted the self-avowed idealism of the rank and file public radio workers.

Statistics and plain common sense are hard to argue with, however, and decisions become increasingly pragmatic at thirtysomething. Obviously more people are apt to stay tuned to a radio station that doesn't totally change its personality every hour, so obviously, discreet and independent blocks of programming for special interest groups hamper audience building. Hence, many stations have adopted a "classic days/jazz nights" format. Early results of the project showed that the black audience for public radio is practically infinitesimal. Hence, specific audience research data on the black population will no longer be available through CPB. The emphasis on "broad appeal" no doubt also played a part in CPB's decision to pass over the funding requests of programs such as the Latin American News Service and the Women's International News Gathering Service in favor of other projects. In addition to this trend there is, still and always, the "friendly persuasion" of corporate underwriters to have programming reflect the values and assumptions of the status quo.

Meanwhile, back at the ranch, there is a price being paid for a different kind of success in Pacifica. The desire to combine "political correctness" and proven media strategy has led many to the conclusion that our future depends on our total identification with a "progressive agenda" and targeting the audience that agrees with that agenda as our own. If this approach is in conflict with the objectives of Pacifica's founders, its supporters say "fine." Those objectives, including coverage of the full spectrum of political, social and cultural perspectives, are deemed representative of a liberal intellectual elite in conflict with real community needs. Furthermore, the professional journalistic standards of the aforementioned "golden age" are being viewed more and more as an unnecessary obstacle to the voice of the people.

The virtual elimination of programming staff positions at KPFK for financial reasons and the quest for increased community participation on the air has, in my opinion, made the shortcomings of this approach painfully apparent. Programming "of and by the people" is not necessarily programming "for the people." Lacking the support and skills of broadcasting experts makes it more difficult for "the people" to use the medium effectively, to capture the imaginations of "the people" they seek to serve. Without the insistence on critical questioning, "the people's" message loses its credibility even among "the people." The incredible potential for expanding our listenership, and thereby maximizing our impact on the community, remains unrealized. If we have traded the vested interests of corporations for the vested interests of the programming volunteers, has free speech really been achieved?

At thirtysomething in the 90's, KPFK must address the dichotomy of the professional and the vox populi, of a progressive agenda and a progressive methodology. If our survival depends on our being, at least in some sense, competitive with the other broadcast outlets in our signal area, and I believe that it does, a middle ground must be found.

At thirtysomething, we probably have the maturity to do so.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

This month our year-long celebration of KPFK's 30th Anniversary on the air combines with the recognition of Pacifica Radio's 40th Anniversary, already in progress. The Radio with Vision Series now includes classic programs from KPFK's history.

Some of our homegrown archival material is woven into special programming for other noteworthy dates in July. We pay tribute to the late Terry Drinkwater (KPFK's first General Manager) as a part of our examination of democracy around Independence Day (Crusader, Traitor or Neither Mon. & Tue., July 3 & 4, 7 PM). Beginning on July 3, the Morning Reading features John Caradine's 10-part reading of Henry David Thoreau's Walden Pond, recorded at KPFK in 1967. The fine productions of Carlos Hagen again grace our airwaves in honor of Independence Day (The Star Spangled Banner Tue., July 4, 6 AM) and Bastille Day (Edith Piaf Fri., July 14, noon). On July 12, we remember the birthday of the late Mike Hodel with a sampling of the many styles of programming for which he set the standard (Mike Hodel Interviews: David Frye at 9 AM, Mike Hodel Reads at 2 PM, and KPFK and the First Amendment at 3:30 PM).

"Those thrilling days of yesteryear" are encapsulated in a newly updated edition of The Sounds and the Fury (Wed. July 26, 8 PM). This documentary montage on the history of KPFK goes behind the microphones to reveal the controversies that sometimes outdo the drama on the air.

July 1 is Canada Day. On their 122nd birthday, we present Canada — Our Neighbor to the North. Canada's birthday will be observed on KPFK with a day long celebration of its people, music, arts and politics. The program is dedicated to the memory of Stan Rogers, Canadian singer and song writer, who with his music and love of country gave us a sense of the history of Canada and the pride of its people. The day will end with Stan Rogers' last concert in Southern California. The concert was recorded at McCabe's Guitar Shop in Santa Monica on May 28, 1983.

Lesbian/Gay Day is another grand KPFK tradition. As it has been for the past several years, this 12th annual 15-hour marathon takes place on the first Sunday in July. The theme for this year's programming is the 20th anniversary of the Stonewall Rebellion, when gays and lesbians fought back against police harassment in New York City. This is often regarded as the beginning of the contemporary lesbian/gay rights movement.

Democracy. They are seeking it in Hungary. They are voting for it in Poland. They are being shot for wanting it in China. They will never stop fighting for it in South Africa.

And in the USA, we have it... or so they say. Explore with us the ideal and the reality of democracy in this country. Our special programming includes readings from the works of Alexis de Tocqueville, the 19th century French author of Democracy in America (Mon., July 3 at 9 AM & 4 PM; Tue., July 4 at 8:10 AM & 4 PM), Angela Davis speaking on Man and the State (Tue., July 4 at 8:30 AM), Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness a panel discussion with Murray Bookchin, Susan Sontag, Allen Ginsberg and TI Grace Atkinson (Tue., July 4 at 4 PM), a debate between Frank Zappa and Walter Brennan called What Have You Done to Preserve, Protect and Perpetuate American Ideals? (Tue., July 4 at 1:30 PM), Michel de Ghelderode's play about one person's search for himself in the midst of a revolution, Pantagloize (Tue., July 4 at 8:30 PM), the future of health care on Body Politics (Mon., July 3 at 5 PM), and the judicial system with Justice for None (Tue., July 4 at 5 PM) will also be addressed.

July 19 is the 10th Anniversary of the Nicaraguan Revolution. Spirits will be high as the Sandanista government marks the first decade since the fall of Anastasio Somoza. Mano Lazo of Pajaro Latino will be there to report on the celebrations live via telephone (Tue., Wed. and Thur., July 18-20 at 7:30 PM).

Two KPFK documentaries featured on the July 19th edition of Midweek (Wed. at 3:30 PM) capture the actual sounds of the Revolution and its aftermath: Nicaragua's Revolution: A Reporter Remembers includes David Helvarg's on-the-scene recordings, edited and narrated by former KPFK News Director Richard Mahler, Ronnie Lovler interviewed Nicaraguan citizens and officials in July of 1982 about attempts to overthrow the Sandanistas for Nicaragua Fights Back. The Morning Readings for that week (July 17-21 at 11:30 AM) will be by Nicaraguan authors including Minister of Culture Ernesto Cardenal.

Pacifica National Programming salutes Nelson Mandela with The Life and Times of Nelson Mandela (Tue., July 18 at 8:30 PM), a historic program on the life of the imprisoned leader of the African National Congress in South Africa. Producer Sandra Rattley travelled to South Africa, where she received generous help from Mandela's family, friends and political associates. After the documentary, stay tuned for excerpts from concerts of South African musicians that have been broadcast live on KPFK, including an appearance by Miriam Makeba at the Coconut Grove in the late 60's.

Pacifica is also responsible for the national distribution of Behind the Mask: AIDS in the Asian Pacific Community and Remember '34 a docu-drama about the waterfront strike that paralysed the West Coast 58 years ago. (Wed., July 5 at 3:30 PM).

It is summer and it is time once again to get involved with the folks at Folkscene. Folkscene Flashbacks give you that opportunity. If you have a favorite guest you heard one Sunday evening, or a favorite record, or even a whole set of songs, let us know. If this sounds interesting to you, send your suggestions to Folkscene, P.O. Box 707, Woodland Hills, CA, 91365.

THE 12TH ANNUAL LESBIAN / GAY DAY

Stonewall Plus 20

Produced by Overnight Productions, who bring you KPFF's IMRU Sundays at 10 PM, this year's Lesbian / Gay Day celebrates the past, present and future of the homophile community. The theme Stonewall Plus 20 reflects 1989 as the 20th anniversary of the Stonewall Rebellion, usually recognized as the beginning of the modern gay liberation movement, in which patrons of the Stonewall Inn, a New York City gay bar, resisted a then-routine police raid in what became three days of rioting. In fact, Los Angeles saw its first peaceful demonstration by gays and lesbians two years earlier after a brutal police raid resulted in death.

QUILTING: HOW SHALL AMERICANS BE GOVERNED?-A radio docu-drama recreating the historical period when this country became a new nation. The Declaration of Independence proclaims "... all men are created equal..." with the inalienable right to "... life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." But what of slavery and the rights of women? Real-life petitioners such as poet Phyllis Wheatley and scientist/inventor Benjamin Banneker, protesting the lack of democracy in the Declaration of Independence, challenge Thomas Jefferson.

WITH JUSTICE FOR NONE-Attorney Gerry Spence discusses his new book on the injustices of the judicial system. Spence has worked on many important cases, including representing the estate of Karen Silkwood in their legal actions against the Kerr-McGee Corp. In With Justice For None, he argues that "justice has become a commodity" priced out of reach of most people. He challenges the whole system, from the selection of and training of law students to the credentials and power of judges. His sharpest indictment though, is saved for corporate America, especially the insurance industry which, he says, "like the mafia, hold a gun to the head of the American people." Produced by Pearl Skotnes.

STRAIGHT, NO CHASER-Coleman Hawkins Special -Coleman Hawkins came from the midwest. He was born in St. Louis, Missouri on November 21, 1904. He started in music early. At the age of five he took up the piano, and four years later he switched to the saxophone. The year was 1913. At that time, the saxophone was an odd instrument to take up. There were no tenor sax players on the scene for a young player to emulate. So, in a sense, it can be said that Coleman Hawkins created the tenor saxophone, and players from Ben Webster to Sonny Rollins and Charles Coltrane have acknowledged their debt to his inspiration and style. Starting today and continuing through August, Jay Green will present a documentary on Coleman Hawkins. There will be a rare interview with Coleman, as well as many interviews with musicians who played with, and were influenced by Hawk.
